A HENPECKED EMPIRE.

The sun may never set on England's land or grandeur, but England is today making itself the laughing stock of the nations on account of its failure to deal with the militant suffragettes.

The latest exploit of these embattled and unsexed women is the smashing of the windows of the home of Reginald McKenna, home secretary, whom they believe, rightly or hysterically, to be an enemy.

But about the most wanton and stupid offense of which they have yet been guilty is the deliberate mutilation of the "Rokeby Venus," purchased by public subscription for $250,000. The act was an insult not only to the British nation, but to the astute instincts of all its classes, poor and rich, which had united in the purchase of this masterpiece.

The issue is whether one does or does not sympathize with "votes for women." Most of us do, and more of us will, whether we like it or not. The whole question is one of law as against anarchy, and the nation called the most powerful in the world has become a band of marauding females.

We doubt if any more pitiful spectacle has recently been staged. Effective and stern in large matters, British law becomes impotent when confronted by feminine violence.
It strives to solve the problem by jailing the women law-breakers. And the moment they go on hunger strikes, the jail doors fly open and the whole travesty renews its dreary procession.

The marvel grows that public opinion in Great Britain tolerates the tyranny of these unfortunate viragoes. That they lose ground for their cause is relatively a small matter, since the cause itself is just, and will survive their indiscretions. That they can ben-epect the world's greatest empire and "get away with it" is a puzzle of international dimensions.

THE RURAL LIFE ENGINEER.

A new and vital element that has entered into the development of the country districts is the rural life engineer. He goes into rural communities, analyzes their life, their pursuits, their pleasures and their needs and cures defects and builds character by living among the people.

The Young Men's Christian Association has vigorously taken up this class of work in the east, and an exchange describes it as follows:

An organized county can maintain one or more rural life engineers. The organization of the county is the first step. Today there are about eighty counties in twenty states which have organized rural life engineers.
About 180 Y. M. C. A. county secretaries or rural life engineers are at work. These secretaries are college-trained men with an agricultural education. They are about 3000 boys and young men in these county associations, and the work done by them indirectly affects the lives of 2,000,000 people in these rural communities.

This is the outcome of more than ten years of the hardest sort of toil, and it is the result of the most persistent and unremitting effort. The rural life engineer is a man, the country as a whole, rural life, and the economic and social conditions are characterized.

There is no doubt that an immense field is open to the rural life engineer in this country.

Students of economics and observers of ordinary intelligence have known for a long time that "something was wrong in the country." That "wrong" was the fact that the urban part of our nation had developed at the expense of the rural part. The citizens of the best blood of the country.
The country, with its money and its its scant attraction, was left to compete with the city for inhabitants. Though men might live a more crowded and a more unhealthy and a less private life on a street than a country road, the imaginary pleasure of the mass attracted them and drew them away from the country and from agricultural productivity.

We need "rural life engineers" who can get at the pulse of the problem, chart its course and make that solution practical for both city and country. Such men will render an inestimable service to the nation.
The Young Men's Christian Association has found a new and an extremely useful field. We trust some of the numerous economic and social foundations that are working for welfare in this country will see fit to encourage them substantially.

WHAT TO DO WITH GOETHALS.

The visit of Colonel Goethals to the United States has been made the occasion of substantial recognition of his epoch-making feat of building the Panama canal.
The Civic Forum of New York has conferred upon him a medal, the first in its history. Congress also has presented him with a gold medal and a vote of thanks, well enough in their way, but not especially significant, measured by the side of Goethals' achievement.

We have been treated to a lot of discussion as to what we shall do with our ex-president and our vice presidents. Aside from keeping the museum, what?

But the question now looms big: What are we going to do with Goethals?

Take a mere expedient and since he has plenty of predecessors, his case is not so baffling.

It is not every day in the week or every century in twenty that a nation puts through a job like the Panama canal, and that one man, as Goethals, deserves credit for it.

As between the expresident and Goethals, and what to do with one and the other, the proposition resolves itself into considerable of a dilemma.

He could have had the commissionship of New York's police force—and burst out as a great confederate of the business peanut policies and graft-storm that acted that more or less less position.

Already, however, he has been governor of Panama, or rather part of it, and will have the distinction of organizing the canal force and inaugurating the act.

After he has finished there—what then?

Somebody has said that he should go to Alaska and superintend the building of the government railroad through the territory. But even that assignment bulks too large a task beside the severing of two continents.

Certainly, Goethals enjoys the unique distinction of being the one man in American history about the rewarding of whom the country was perplexed. And if that is not in itself a high honor, it would be difficult to find one.

REV. H. K. WALKER.

An earnest effort is being made not only by the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, but by many outside friends of Rev. H. K. Walker, to induce him to withdraw further consideration of the call that will take him to California. So insistent is the demand for him to remain in Atlanta that it is reported he may be compelled to announce his determination to continue in the pulpit of the historic institution over which he has presided, as pastor, for several years.

The Constitution sincerely hopes that this report will be verified, for the loss of Dr. Walker would be felt, not only by his church, but by the whole city.

No minister who has come to this city in many years has taken a firmer hold upon the community than Dr. Walker. He has the esteem and the confidence of his own congregation, and of the public, and the departure of no minister of the city would be received with more general regret.

Now that the First Presbyterian church is about to perfect its plans for a new home, for which it has already bought the lot, a change of pastors would come at a particularly inopportune time, for by the measure his qualities of leadership, and has so firmly established himself in the good will of his congregation, that it would be a difficult undertaking to replace him with one who combines his peculiar fitting qualities to direct the work of the church at this time.

So the community feels that it votes the endorsement of the whole city when it expresses the hope that this able and most beloved minister will conclude to remain where he is.

OFFICIAL JOY-RIDING.

Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, is to be congratulated for securing such amendment to the appropriation bill of the District of Columbia as will bar autos to all save the fire, health and police branches. The Associated Press reports that the embargo will send to storage at least thirty-two machines.

Under republican administration, the manner in which big and pee-wee officials were "joy-riding" at the public expense was national scandal.

This is not to reckon with the "pink Turkish bath rooms" and other sordid luxuries, allowed senators and representatives.

America is neither a poor nor a stingy nation. But there is inconsistency somewhere, when we deprive our foreign diplomatic representatives of decent quarters and automobiles on our minor official at home.

Deacon Rockefeller's pastor praises him to the skies—somewhat before his time.

One of Villa's accomplishments is in making the movies work over time.

Huerta says he is going to have peace if he has to fight a lifetime for it.

Funny how Mr. Carnegie's peace palaces keep on the firing line.

Just when the Colonel is quiet Mr. Taft announces that "the most important thing in the country is to defeat the progressive party in the next election."

They quote Buffalo Bill as having the belief that "he can whip Mexico single-handed." His imagination is as lively as ever.

Got to take it as it comes—

If they beat the blizzard—

Or just put the firebrands,

Weather it's a matter of course—

Anyhow it's got to go.

If it's thunder—if it's snow!

I just never get distressed.

Since it's done of its best.

And—to put the matter plain—

It would rather rain than rain.

However, on a vote of thanks,

If it's thunder—if it's snow.

The Trials of a Hero

GEN. WILLIAM WALKER.

When General William Walker was shot for filibustering at Truxillo, Honduras, on September 22, 1883, he had to the people he had gathered about the public square to see him met his doom. "The war which I made in Honduras was unjust. Those who accompanied me are not to blame. I alone am guilty and ask pardon of the people. I receive death with resignation. Would that it were not so!"

He then sat on a chair to which he was bound. A file of ten soldiers advanced and fired on the prisoner. He died immediately.
The soldiers gave three cheers and all was over. Walker was thirty-seven years of age at the time.

Walker was a daring character and seemed to believe that his "star of destiny" had been set in store for him. Few adventurers of his class ever ran such a race of short-lived and fatal folly. In 1853 he was the leader of an expedition which sailed from San Francisco with the intention of taking possession of Sonora, then a northern state of Mexico, adjoining California. He landed at La Paz, where he met with but little success. He was proclaimed an independent republic of Lower California, and elected president. At the same time appointing each one of his sixty followers to some office. He very soon, however, had to evacuate or starve and surrendered himself to United States authorities. On his arrival at San Francisco he was held for a violation of the neutrality laws, but was acquitted.

Early in the summer of 1858, Walker placed himself at the head of an expedition numbering about sixty men to proceed to California. He landed at Sonora, and fought. He landed at Sonora, and

HARWELL'S SUCCESSOR WILL BE NAMED TODAY

Strenuous Fight Being Waged by Seawright and Renfro for the Place.

Behind the scenes of city politics there is being waged today a strenuous fight between J. H. Seawright and J. N. Renfro for the place of the aldermanic board made vacant by the death of Alderman H. H. Harwell.

Both candidates practically ended their campaign Sunday. Caucuses in the ward were held in the interest of both men without a decided advantage being gained by either. Supporters of Seawright contend that he controls the caucus, the twenty-eight other in council and the aldermanic board. Renfro asserts that he has pledges from at least fifteen. Council decides the matter today.

The issue in the race between the two men is not merely one of council who have consistently voted against liquor in an embarrassing position. Seawright and Renfro are admitted anti-prohibitionists. Renfro was in the last caucusmanic position. He fired war and ran on a platform of "liberal politics" and "good government." He was elected by a large majority. Seawright is in the real estate business. He is a member of the city council and is prominent in city politics in all sections of the city. He said that righteousness is a prerequisite for the blessing of God. He urged upon his people to be righteous in all their business and social life. Dr. John E. White Preaches About the Citizens' League "Christianity, Citizenship, Citizenship in League for a City's Life," was the subject of a sermon last night in the Second Baptist church by Dr. John E. White.

In the course of his sermon Dr. White referred to movements now going on in cities to organize Christian citizenship as a unit force affecting the social welfare of large masses of population. He said that the citizens' league is a movement to organize the power of the citizen and to use it for the benefit of the community.

There have been times within memory when this spirit of citizenship was at its height. It was the spirit that made the American republic what it is today. It was the spirit that made the American republic what it is today.

Dr. White said that the citizens' league is a movement to organize the power of the citizen and to use it for the benefit of the community. He said that the citizens' league is a movement to organize the power of the citizen and to use it for the benefit of the community.

Business Efficiency
Transferred to Home

BETTER housekeeping is better homemaking. Just as Man has been requiring efficiency in the administration of business so Woman has demanded time, labor and money saving devices for efficient administration of the home.

Do you know, Mrs., about the many effective things there are for lightening house work?

You owe it to yourself to have every practical contrivance that will save time, steps, and patience, and produce better results.

If you have allowed your kitchen and laundry and pantry and other housekeeping departments to become out of date, look in today's Constitution and find out from the advertisements what shops there are that keep house furnishings. Pay a visit to one or several of these shops and look through their stock. It will be an education to you.

Every new home established this spring by a newly married couple should first subscribe for The Constitution and form the habit of buying from its advertisers. This is an efficient plan of household economy.
